1. Introduction to the Manager Role

The Manager role in Moodle is a higher-level role than Trainer/HR. It provides broader site and course management capabilities, such as:

- Managing categories and courses,
- Assigning users to roles,
- Viewing reports,
- Accessing settings normally available to administrators.

This role is typically used when an organization wants someone to oversee multiple courses or categories without giving them full site administrator rights.

Note: In this project, the Manager role is not being used. You can safely ignore this section unless your organization decides to activate the role in the future.

2. Standard Moodle Manager Capabilities

By default, Moodle Managers can:

- Manage courses and categories,
- Assign teachers, students, and other roles,
- View user progress and reports,
- Access site administration features related to learning.

For the full and up-to-date details, please refer to the official Moodle documentation:

3. Project-Specific Use

Since this role is not used in the current implementation, all management tasks should be performed by Trainers/HR administrators or Site Administrators as described in the Trainer/HR Guide.
